BETTER FLOWERS

DURING the past year number one flowers have always sold well at premium prices, which proves that the best is always in demand. There has never been an over-supply of really good quality flowers.

It is known that a great deal of the responsibility in growing quality merchandise depends upon the grower himself, but without the best in seeds—no matter how faithful he may be with his culture—he is beaten before he starts.

The very life of our industry depends upon the quality of our merchandise, so let us work together; I would like to help you have number one flowers and plants in 1935 by giving you the start you deserve and pay for—namely, let me supply you with number one seeds.

My success depends upon your success with my seeds. I look forward to a good year's business and wish you the same.

DAVID DENHOLM

TERMS OF SALE

Wilt Resistant Asters

THIS GROUP has been developed to combat the scourges of the disease called Fusarium Wilt, which has made it impossible to grow the old regular strains of Asters in many sections. These new WILT RESISTANT Strains can be planted on wilt infested land and good crops obtained where the ordinary strain failed.

EARLY BEAUTY WILT RESISTANT

Fine long stems, 2½ to 3 ft. long; make finest of cut flowers.

ASTER

Double Giants of California

THESE are the largest and most double Asters known, the flowers are six to eight inches across and have fully petalled centers. Stems are non-lateral, leaving fine, long, clean stems which are ideal for cut flowers. A great favorite with shippers, on account of their keeping qualities. The strain which we offer is unsurpassed for size and length of stem. None better.

DOUBLE LARKSPUR

Giant Imperial

TA LL, upright, compact base branching in habit. The Giant Imperials have superceded all other types of Larkspur for florists' use. The lateral branches come straight up from the ground and do not branch out of the side of the main stem as is the habit of the Tall Double Stock Flowered Type. We have starred the best market colors and variaties.

MARIGOLD

HERE has been considerable controversy as to which is really the best type of Giant African Marigold for Florists' use. What is really wanted is a very large flower of a close, firm spongy texture, which will ship well. The all Double Strains are good but I feel that they do not have a large enough percentage of really tight flowers. The two colors we list below are not all double, but run about 75% real tight spongy florist type, the balance single flowered. However those specially select strains will give you a larger percentage of real cut flower shipping Marigolds than any existing so-called all Double Strain.

RANUNCULUS

NEW DOUBLE FLORISTS' STRAIN

This remarkable strain has been originated out on the Pacific Coast and is now used almost exclusively by the wholesale flower growers. It has been selected with cut flower requirements in view. Beautiful large double flowers with a great number of petals and extra long stems. About 80% of the flowers come fully double balance are semi-double. The plants being very robust and floriferous, we safely say this is the finest strain of Ranunculus in existence today.
